THREE POSITION SAFETY

Sporting rifle M808

This contemporary rifle is based on the authentic Mauser system, Zastava is known for worldwide. The cold forged chrome vanadium steel barrel insures high accuracy and precision.

The cylindrical shaped free-floating barrel with a crown on the muzzle provides additional match grade accuracy. The barrel and action ha a fine velvet blue finish that does not reflect light.

The receiver is of a polygonal shape and features Picatinny rail, both made from one block of steel. The rail allows for low-profile optical-electronic device mounting. Bolt-receiver assembly enables continuous movement of the bolt, for quick repeating.

The mechanical safety, placed on the bolt sleeve has three positions:

- blocked bolt and trigger,
- blocked trigger - free bolt,
- free bolt - free trigger.

Single DAT (Double Action Trigger).

Magazine is detachable, and its made of high strenght polymer.

The exceptionally ergonomic stock is made of high quality walnut, and its available in both "Varmint" (stock with thumbhole stock) & "Bavarian" (high cheek pad) styles

M70 Exclusive

In calibers:
All calibers of M70 Standard

The Lux & Exclusive line features "one of a kind" rifles and handguns with hand carved stocks and hand engraved metal parts. Zastava Arms has a long history of engraving firearms.

Hunting and sporting weapons, rifles, personal use pistols and other weapons with the "signature" of the engravers are owned by famous world statesmen, ambassadors, artists, politicians, actors, athletes, and famous collectors from all over the world.

Precious metals such as gold and silver are now often inlaid in the metal engraving, which, besides artistic impression, significantly increase the value of the weapon. Other techniques such as multi-level polishing, sandblasting, blueing, and chrome plating are also being used. Each weapon is engraved by the same artist, wood and metal, from start to finish!

ENGRAVING ON THE SIGHT

During the 1960's, Zastava oruzje already had its first weapon engraver, craftsman Milos Okiljevic. In the 70's, engraving was done exclusively by Slovenian, Zdenko Perhinek. He mainly used the photo chemical method, and very little hand engraving. Then in 1977, the factory selected five gunsmiths who had an eye for art (Zdenko Perhinek, Radivoje Lazic, Dragomir Milojkovic, Novica Prokic and Ranko Babic) and sent them to one of the oldest European centers - Suhl - for training in hand-engraving. The craftsmen quickly mastered the German style, and the application of arabesque and hunting themed engraving. They also started development of the autochthonous arabesque, with a number of elements from national folklore. These craftsmen then trained the next generation of Zastava's engravers, using the method they learned from the Germans. They then started producing artwork-based engraving on metal and carving on wooden parts of the weapons.

Zastava M91 is a semi-automatic rifle fed from detachable 10-box magazines. In concept, it is similar to the Soviet Dragunov sniper/designated marksman rifle. While the design of the M91 is based upon an elongated version of the AK-47 design just like its predecessor, the Zastava M76, the M91 features several modifications, bringing it closer to the Dragunov style. The separate stock and pistol grip used on the M76 have been replaced with a thumbhole stock made of synthetic polymer material resembling that used on the Russian rifle. This rifle is chambered in 7.62x54mmR.
